Love You Always

By Frances Stickley

Little Hedgie and his mommy snuffled home beneath the trees. The leaves were rustling softly in the gentle autumn breeze. Little Hedgie shivered as the leaves came drifting down.

“Everything feels different now,” said Hedgie with a frown.

“Everything is changing,” Mommy said. “It’s nature’s way. But change makes nature lovelier with every passing day.”

Hedgie looked around him, and he suddenly felt strange. “Mommy..... would you love me MORE,” he wondered, “if I changed”? Would you love me more if I could dart across the leaves? What if I were like a squirrel dashing through the trees?”

“Imagine that,” said Mommy. “How exciting it would seem, but I couldn’t love you more if you could race the rushing stream.”

“Would you love me more if I could fly up in the sky? What if I could flutter like a dainty dragonfly?”

“Imagine that,” said Mommy. “How you’d sparkle, little one, but I couldn’t love you more if you could soar up to the sun.”

“Would you love me more if I could leap along a log? What if I could bounce across the lilies like a frog?”

“Imagine that,” said Mommy. “What a joy to jump so high but I couldn’t love you more if you could spring into the sky.”

“Would you love me more if I had smooth and silky hair? What if I were fluffy like the rabbit over there?”

“Imagine that,” said Mommy. “Fur or prickles, I’d be proud, but I couldn’t love you more if you were softer than a cloud.”

“But, Mommy,” Hedgie wondered, “will love always last forever, even if I change just like the seasons or the weather?”

“ALWAYS,” Mommy said. “As long as skies are high above . . . there’s one thing that will never change,” she promised. . . . “And that’s love.”

“I’ll love you always, little one. I’ve loved you from the start. I’ll tell you every day, until you know the words by heart.”

“Always,” whispered Hedgie as he curled up in his bed. “Imagine that . . .,” he murmured.

“Just imagine,” Mommy said.

That’s the way Jesus is, He will always love us. The only change He wants is for us to ask Him into our hearts and change the way we act.

Hidey's Hidden Scripture

Just For Fun

Harry when is your birthday and can we come to you birthday party?

My birthday is June 29th. I don't know if I'll have a birthday party because our tree is too small for everyone. I would be glad to have if we move to a bigger tree.

Our Prayer

Dear God, Thank You for loving me so much that You sent Jesus to earth, and He gave His life for me. Even when I make mistakes, You still love and forgive me.
